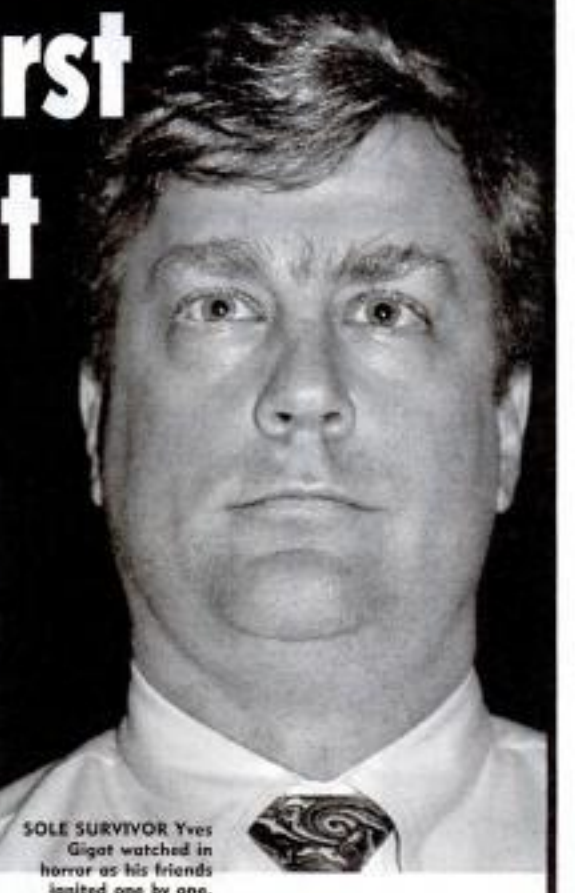
Secret Service photo captures astonishing encounter!

SPACE ALIEN MEETS WITH NEWT GINGRICH!

2-HOUR SUMMIT WITH SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE WILL CHANGE THE WORLD!

Seven people burst into flames — at the same time!



SOLE SURVIVOR Yves Gigot watched in horror as his friends ignited one by one.

By KEVIN CREED / Correspondent

PARIS — Seven people at a lavish dinner party burned to death when one of them spontaneously burst into flames and the fire leapt to six others, igniting them one by one in a bizarre chain reaction!

Scientists are calling it the first case of its kind in history.

"Worldwide, there are about 20 incidents of human spontaneous combustion a year," said noted French physicist Dr. Jacques Millont.

"But there's never been a case on record before in which the phenomenon has spread from one person to another."

Dr. Millont is the world's leading expert on the uncanny episodes in which people mysteriously catch fire and burn from the inside out.

Yves Gigot, the only surviving member of the ill-fated party, witnessed the whole ghastly incident. He returned to the table after using the bathroom, just in time to see the first of the victims, Marie de Challeurs, go up in flames.

First case ever of a human spontaneous combustion CHAIN REACTION!

"Everyone was laughing, gathered around the table, having a wonderful time," says Gigot, 35. "There were no candles on the table, no source of heat or fire anywhere around. But when I was halfway across the dining room I saw smoke begin to pour from Marie's ears, nose and mouth.

"Her eyes got very wide and suddenly she just sort of exploded. Fire burst out from inside her body and began to consume her.

"I saw a thin stream of fire jump over and strike Georges Casaubon. It was as if a magnet somehow drew the flames across the table.

"The stream of flame seemed to trigger a reaction in Georges, and he too burst ablaze from some strange source inside."

Gigot watched in horror as the thin flashes of fire jumped from one person to the other at the table detonating, in turn, all seven guests at the table — including Renee, Gigot's wife of nine years.

"As usual in these cases, nothing else was burned," said Dr. Millont. "All the furniture survived the blaze, including the flammable polyester table tors found only seven small piles of ashes — one on each chair."

The respected researcher said there have been cases in which more than one person have spontaneously combusted at the same time. One incident, involving a Belgian couple who perished while kissing at a mall, made newspapers nationwide, including Weekly World News' Sept. 19, 1989 issue.

But Dr. Millont said none of the other cases involved a chain reaction as this one did.

"I will continue to investigate this phenomenon until I get to the bottom of it," he said.

Most moms believe in spanking!

Many mothers don't give a hoot that so-called experts say spanking isn't the best way to discipline their kids. They tan their little hellions' hides when they need it.

An amazing 42 percent of 204 mothers surveyed in the January issue of the medical journal, Pediatrics, believe a good

Child experts say spanking is bad, but mothers spank fairly frequently.

"They both believe in it and do it often," says Dr. Rebecca Socolar of the University of North Caro-

COOKED GOOSE — ALMOST!

By JACK ALEXANDER / Staff writer

TURLOCK, Calif. — Outraged animal lovers would like to get their hands on the heartless sicko who shot this pathetic, one-legged goose in the head with an 8-inch dart as it hobbled across a park here.

"I'd like to spend five minutes in a room alone with the scumbag who did this. Only one of us would walk out — and it wouldn't be the scumbag," said a burly pet owner.

One-legged bird survives 8-inch dart in the head!

The crippled goose is alive and as well as can be expected. Another fraction of an inch, though, and this goose would have been cooked — for good.

Cops believe a teenager with a crossbow that shoots darts is responsible for wounding the goose and for shooting a duck in the wing at popular Donnelly Park here.

Animal control director Maxine Gonzales and others tried to catch the wounded goose so they could remove the dart and treat the injury.

"But every time we got close to the female goose, a very protective male goose nudged her away from us and toward the lake at the park," Miss Gonzales explained.

"The goose disappeared from the park for a day and reappeared a few days later minus the dart.

"We suspect the same person who shot the goose came back and retrieved the dart so there would be no evidence."

Police, animal control officers and the "old folks" who frequent the park are on the lookout for the sleazeball who uses ducks and geese for target practice.

"Maybe the weirdo's next shot will be at one of us," said an oldster who frequents the park. "Anyone who would intentionally shoot a defenseless duck or goose is capable of anything."

If caught, the culprit could be charged with animal cruelty and sent to jail for three months.

DUCK! Unfortunately this fowl didn't move fast enough to avoid a crossbow dart through the head.

WITCH-HUNTERS KILL HUNDREDS!

WITCHES HILL, S. Africa — More than 100 women have been killed in this country in the past year — for being witches!

The suspected sorcerers have been burned alive by friends and neighbors and sometimes by their own families in a terrifying witch-hunt that has sent thousands of frightened women running to the police for protection.

So worrisome is the wave of grisly deaths that authorities have set aside a special refuge called Witches Hill for women who fear they will be the next targets of witch-hunting mobs.

"The toll is frightening, but we believe only a tiny proportion has been reported," said local Police Col. Hohlabi Tlomatsana.

Man at a bakery: "Inside me there's a thin person struggling to get out — but I

TUMOR MAN

NEWS readers send thousands of cards, letters and $$$ to man covered with grotesque blisters!

By ANN VICTORIA
Correspondent

CEBU CITY, Philippines — Bighearted Weekly World News readers brought a bright burst of sunshine into the life of a humble fisherman whose entire body is covered with grotesque tumors — by sending him more than 5,000 cards, letters and checks!

FISHERMAN Serapio Linao.

Grateful Serapio Linao was overcome with emotion as he received an avalanche of mail and $12,631 in a simple ceremony last week.

The presentation included $500 from the offices of the NEWS, but most of the contributions came from readers just like you whose hearts were touched by the moving story we ran late last year.

Our article told how Serapio's optimistic attitude helped him face a life that would devastate a less courageous person.

Serapio has suffered since childhood from a rare condition. His body is covered with thousands of ugly tumors — some of them as big as small watermelons.

Doctors don't know what is keeping the brave father of three alive. But far from feeling sorry for himself, Serapio has become an inspiration to the fellow residents of his small fishing village.

"God has blessed me by letting me live," he said.

"Every day is a gift. And I feel constant gratitude for the kindness my neighbors and friends have always shown me."

The NEWS offered readers the opportunity to send Serapio words of encouragement and support. Within days, our offices were swamped with letters, many of which included generous checks. We forwarded the mail to him along with two fine fishing nets and our own contribution.

"I have no words to express my appreciation," Serapio said as he accepted the gifts.

"I'm touched that people so far away in such an important country as America would care about a poor Philippine villager. I thank Weekly World News and its readers from the depths of my heart."

A close friend of Serapio says: "Although he never complains, I know he's had some problems recently that make working difficult.

of giving up fishing. His family depends on him. Now his dreams have come true. The money will help him feed his family and the nets will allow him to continue to feel useful and productive by allowing him to keep working."

Once again, NEWS readers reveal themselves as the most loving and compassionate group of people on Letter arrives 76 years late!

DORAVILLE, Ga. — Housewife Kathy Kilgore was pleased as punch when she finally got a letter from her sister-in-law — 76 years after it was sent!

Incredibly, the post office only recently discovered the yellowed 1919 note, whose writer died in 1987. They tracked down Mrs. Kilgore and delivered it to her.

"I'm not really upset about it," she said of the tardy delivery.

"I think it's very commendable for the postmaster to take the time to send it on. But I wonder where the letter was all this time."

CRUNCH! BOING! OUCH! KIDS' CLUTTER TRIPS UP BURGLAR!

HAMILTON, N.J. — A bumbling burglar had to hightail it out a window minutes after breaking into a house — because he made so much noise tripping over toys that he woke up the family that lived there!

The crook entered the house on the ground floor and tripped over one toy after another as he tried to pick his way between dozens of playthings scattered over the living room.

The owners of the suburban house were awakened by the noise and rushed downstairs, but the burglar had already escaped. "It looks like he wanted to get away in a hurry," said Det. Sgt. Chuck Stanley of the local police department. He said the man got only a wallet and $35 in cash.

WANT TO BE MORE POPULAR?

CHANGE THE WAY YOU WALK!

By ROBERT DAVIDSON
Correspondent

People often like you or dislike you simply because of the way you walk, says a psychologist.

That's because walking is actually a form of body language that reveals information about your personality, said Dr. Sara Snodgrass.

"You send out signals whether you walk quickly or slowly, bounce along or shuffle your feet, swing your arms or keep them down at your sides," she declared.

Dr. Snodgrass and other researchers viewed people walking and videotaped them, from the shoulders down. The tapes were then shown to students.

"The results were remarkable," Dr. Snodgrass said. "Those who tended to walk slowly, shuffle their feet and keep their arms at their sides were most often perceived to be less friendly."

They were also viewed as unhappy, unlikable and lacking self-assurance.

Those who walked fast with swinging arms were seen as more friendly, happy and ambitious. Dr. Snodgrass concluded: "If you want to impress people, swing your arms as you walk and take long strides."

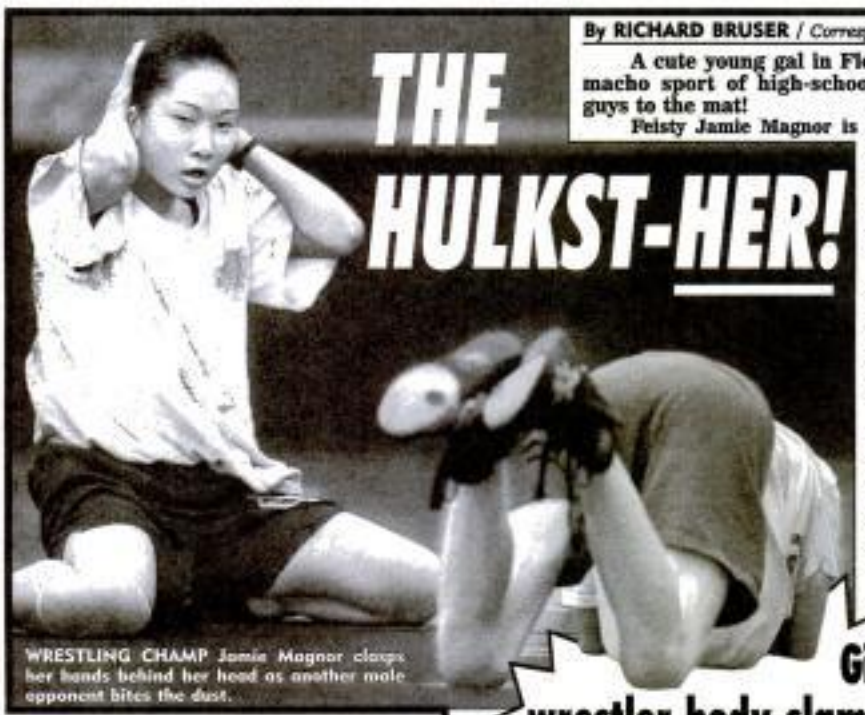
Broken toilets force airline passengers to 'hold it' — for 13 hours!

Passengers on a charter flight from Sao Paulo, Brazil, to Sydney, Australia, nearly burst at the seams — when they were forced to spend 13 agonizing hours in the air without using the rest room!

"We had just taken off when the attendant announced that the toilets were overflowing and no one would be allowed to use them," said furious businessman Angelo Neves. "It was scheduled as a nonstop flight, but the passengers all thought sure they'd land somewhere and put us on a plane with working rest rooms.

"But no matter how much we pleaded, they just kept going and going and going. When we finally landed, we were ready to take that pilot apart — but we were all too busy running for the airport bathrooms to bother with him."

THE HULKST-HER!



WRESTLING CHAMP Jamie Magnor clasps her hands behind her head as another male opponent bites the dust.

Girl wrestler body-slammin' the guys like clockwork in Florida!

By RICHARD BRUSER / Correspondent

A cute young gal in Florida is body-slamming the macho sport of high-school wrestling — by pinning guys to the mat!

Feisty Jamie Magnor is only a sophomore at Jupiter High School but she's already set records — and made national headlines — by whipping two of her male opponents. Hulk "The Hulkster" Hogan better beware.

"My team has been really supportive of me," the soft-voiced 16-year-old said. "And when everyone at school found out I'd pinned a guy they all came up and said, 'Way to go.'"

Kindhearted Jamie even admits she felt a little sorry for her opponent. "I knew he was going to feel bad about getting pinned by a girl, but after a while I stopped worrying," she said. "I'm just out there trying to do my best."

The losing boy's coach said the unlucky lad has learned to cope with the defeat.

"He took a lot of harassment about it around school but everyone on the team has stood behind him and it's really helped pull our team together," said Coach Harold Primeus of William T. Dwyer High School in Palm Beach Gardens.

Jamie followed up her first victory with a repeat performance and pinned a second male opponent to the mat.

"Wrestling is a rough sport," Jamie acknowledged, but she's gotten used to all the hands-on physical contact she has with guys.

"I used to be real self-conscious, always thinking about where the guy's hands and my hands were," she said. "But I've stopped worrying. It's just part of wrestling."

And busy Jamie doesn't have to worry about her boyfriend getting jealous when she's rolling on the mat with another fellow.

"With all my wrestling practice I don't really have time for a boyfriend," she said. "I'd rather just flirt around anyway."

And since wrestlers compete in specific weight classes, Jamie can't afford to be shy about getting on the scales in front of people.

"No, that doesn't bother me," she said. "I usually stay right around 119 pounds and I don't care who knows it."

If we could use the money political candidates spend on their campaigns, we would be able to cure a lot of the ills they complained about during those campaigns.

Drunk Serbian soldiers swap $2.8M tank for 3 cases of wine!

European photo

FIVE soldiers could end up facing a firing squad because they traded away a tank like this one.

By EARL TURNER / Correspondent

Five drunk Serbian soldiers drove a $2.8 million Russian-built tank to a town held by enemy Bosnian Moslems — and traded it for three cases of plum wine!

The unidentified soldiers — a staff sergeant, a corporal and three privates — have been arrested and are awaiting trial.

"Their behavior is nothing short of treason," furious Serbian General Azis Borovac said. "The tank they gave away has already been used against our forces."

The five soldiers were found passed out drunk a few miles from where they traded away the tank.

Under heavy interrogation one soldier confessed to the entire episode.

He said the five soldiers went on two-day leave and spent the first day drinking and partying, until they ran out of booze and money.

"They came back to their base, stole the keys to one of the tanks and took off with it," Gen. Borovac said. "Then they made a beeline for the nearest Moslem town, waving a white flag of surrender.

"A Moslem infantry squad surrounded the tank, but when our soldiers emerged it was obvious they were unarmed and quite drunk.

"They said they just wanted to swap the tank for some homemade plum wine, the most highly sought alcohol in Bosnia.

"Their original plan evidently was to trade the tank for six cases of the wine but the Moslems bargained them down to just three cases."

All five soldiers could face the firing squad if convicted for the stupid stunt, said the Serbian general.

Intergalactic summit that will

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The space alien who made worldwide headlines by visiting George Bush, Bill Clinton and Ross Perot is reportedly meeting with Newt Gingrich!

Weekly World News has obtained a Secret Service photograph showing the new Speaker of the House, Sen. Bob Dole and other congressional leaders emerging from a two-hour meeting with the alien.

Gingrich declined to discuss the meeting but spokesman Tony Blankley described the talks as "very intense."

Blankley denied rumors the alien was seeking financial aid for extraterrestrials who have secretly colonized Earth, saying "I can assure you that no extraterrestrial that comes to this country from outer space would be eligible for welfare benefits of any kind."

Sen. Dole said: "I'm not at liberty to say what we discussed but I can say it was one of the most productive meetings with an extraterrestrial we've ever had."

Yet another Washington source said: "The alien and Mr. Gingrich discussed nearly every topic concerning the United States. They talked about world peace, economic issues and social concerns — but the primary issue was Gingrich's future plans.

"The Speaker has said many times in the past he isn't interested in being President but the alien apparently encouraged him to reconsider that decision. The alien indicated he strongly supports Gingrich's policies and would likely back him if he decided to run for President."

The alien endorsed Clinton in the Aug. 11, 1992, edition of the NEWS, helping the Democratic candidate to victory. However, the alien has since met with conservative talk show host Rush Limbaugh and expressed disappointment with Clinton's performance.

In the meeting with Limbaugh the alien reportedly said the leaders on his planet are looking for a new candidate to support in the next Presidential election.

Perry Hogstead

"The alien said leaders on his planet closely follow activities on Earth and are particularly concerned with world peace," the source said. "He told Mr. Gingrich he is looking for a strong leader on Earth with whom his planet could work."

The alien's home planet is technologically more advanced than Earth. He has made an offer to share this technology with the United States and even took Clinton on a ride in a space ship, as reported in the Dec. 1, 1992, edition of the NEWS.

But in the past two years the alien has distanced himself from Clinton. And the meeting with Gingrich confirms the belief that the alien is looking for a new partner in the U.S. government.

One analyst said the Gingrich-alien meeting is a strong indication of the changing direction of the political future of the United States. "The alien's encounter with Gingrich is very revealing," says Perry Hogstead.

"It would indicate Newt Gingrich is on his way to being even more powerful of a political figure than he already is."

High-power stream defends you from safe distance

- Drops even demented and drugged attackers and animals
- Used by police and military
- Up to 80 times more effective than MACE
- No after effects

Men, these days, you need a defense weapon as much as women. Men are 3 times more likely to be victims of violent crime.

Forget women's protective sprays. Their dainty vapor is likely to blow in your own face. Sprays have short range. You must be dangerously close to your attacker to use them.

Safe around kids

You need a smart weapon. One that drops attackers from a safe distance. And can't harm kids when not in use. LIQUID-BULLET protects you in a 20-ft. Circle-of-Safety with a high-power chemical stream. Your attacker's skin feels on fire. He is blinded, fights for breath, gets dizzy and disoriented. He's helpless for 20 minutes, yet suffers no after effects

More effective than MACE*. LIQUID-BULLET's new super-formula with pepper stops even demented, drugged or drunk attackers and vicious animals (take it camping); MACE can't. And only LIQUID-BULLET guarantees free lifetime refills.

Are you suffering from...
DATING BURNOUT?

Top psychologists offer good advice to stressed-out singles

Many men and women are so disillusioned with dating that they're suffering from "dating burnout," experts say.

"In time, dating becomes a burden for some people — they reach a point where they can no longer face another date," said psychoanalyst Dr. Herbert Freudenberger.

By LOU MARTIN
Correspondent

"They grow tired of always having to be 'up' for dates, trying to act charming and enthusiastic even when they're not in the mood.

"And they become weary of dressing up for each new date and worrying about their appearance. What's more, dating can be emotionally draining when an individual has to keep trying to draw out the other person. It takes a lot of energy to keep a conversation going.

"Dating burnout is a growing phenomenon. We're seeing more cases all the time."

Psychologist Dr. Gary Emery said: "While dating at first is exciting and interesting, it eventually becomes tedious and lackluster.

"Daters grow disillusioned at meeting one person after another who's boring, crass or conceited.

"They also grow weary of relating their life history to one new date after another.

"The psychological price they pay for dating eventually becomes too high — and dating burnout sets in."

To combat dating burnout, the experts suggest that before you go out on a date, you try to get to know the person — through a lengthy phone conversation, for example.

Be more selective in whom you date. Be sure you and your prospective date have something in common. Don't accept a date just so you'll have something to do.

Try going out for lunch or coffee together before accepting a night out.

And when you do go on a date, don't agree to do something you know you won't enjoy just because that's what your date wants to do.

Deadbeat dad ordered to pay up after winning $5 million lottery!

NEWPORT, R.I. — Marie Hines finally collected alimony and child support from the "deadbeat dad" who she says left her to raise three boys back in 1951!

Now she's sharing in the multimillion-dollar lottery prize he won late last year. Mrs. Hines, 72, now remarried, says her ex-husband 43 years ago and never showed up for the alimony and child support hearings. She was left to scrape by, working a $7-a-week job.

She says she never saw him again until she noticed his picture in the paper and learned he had hit a $5.1 million lottery jackpot.

Elvis double to marry Priscilla impersonator

By JOE BERGER / Staff writer

WITH THIS KING

BRADFORD, England — Elated Elvis Presley impersonator Aaron Stuart is set to say "I do" to his Burning Love — eye-popping Priscilla Presley impersonator Jessica Hamilton.

"Just look at us. We're made for each other," said adoring Aaron, 29.

"Jessica looks so much like Priscilla it would scare you, and everybody tells me I'm the spitting image of Elvis.

"When we fell in love, it was like history had repeated itself. I've dedicated my life to being just like Elvis — and now I've found my very own Priscilla."

The look-alike lovebirds met following one of Aaron's night-club performances just months ago — and it was instant Surrender for gorgeous Jessica, 28.

"The minute I saw him on stage, I knew he was the man for me," the dark-eyed bride-to-be told reporters.

"The way he sang, the way he moved — to me he really was Elvis, only maybe a little better.

"I make my living impersonating Priscilla, so I guess it was fate that I'd fall head over heels for a man who looks like Elvis reborn."

During a special concert marking The King's 60th birthday in January, eager Aaron decided it was Now Or Never and popped the question. Gorgeous Jessica asked, Are You Sincere? and Aaron replied, Cross My Heart and Hope To Die.

That cleared up, the lovestruck couple started making plans to tie the knot this May in Memphis in a re-run of the Elvis-Priscilla wedding of 1967.

Aaron and Jessica will even dance down the aisle to the strains of Elvis' Hawaiian Wedding Song.

"That will be the happiest day of my life," said jubilant Jessica.

"I'm sure the real Priscilla wasn't any happier the day she married The King than I'll be the day I marry my Big Hunk O' Love."

ELVIS AND PRISCILLA LOOK-ALIKES Aaron Stuart and Jessica Hamilton plan to marry in a ceremony just like their idols'. Inset photo shows The King and his bride shortly after they tied the knot in 1967.

Flasher elected town's mayor — for the 5th time!

Citizens of Friendsville, Md., know just what to do with someone who keeps exposing himself in public. They've elected him their mayor — five times!

You heard right. It's common knowledge that Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle is routinely arrested and is currently on probation for exposing himself along an interstate highway.

He admits he's a compulsive flasher.

But voters figure that doesn't make him a bad mayor. They've just reelected him to a fifth two-year term.

JODIE FOSTER TAKES IT ALL OFF!

JODIE GOES NAKED. It took a long time — but Jodie Foster finally bared all for a movie.

Shy superstar Jodie Foster lets it all hang out in her current movie Nell — the two-time Oscar-winner gets totally naked in a sensational skinny-dipping scene!

JOHN HANNON'S HOLLYWOOD

Shy star strips in new hit movie 'Nell'

"I'm the sort of a person who blushes when I have to kiss someone on a movie set," says modest Jodie, 32.

"Stripping in front of 30 or 40 people in the crew was one of the toughest things I've ever had to do. I imagined it was just me and the camera and as soon as the scenes were over I raced to cover myself up again."

Foster lost a hefty 13 pounds to play Nell, eating only what Nell would eat — which turned out to be mostly nuts, grains and berries.

"Ten or 15 years ago, the idea of showing this much of my chest made me so insane that I could not possibly do it," Foster says.

"But Nell wasn't looking at somebody and taking a shirt off, which is really uncomfortable."

Jodie has come a long way indeed. When the actress was 14 she refused to disrobe for The Little Girl Who Lives Down the Lane.

Her older sister Connie body-doubled for her.

"I didn't know who was going to take advantage of it," says Jodie.

"There was a certain amount of control that I couldn't give up.

"Now I'm a little bit ready for it. I'm in fairly good shape but I hope people don't focus too much on the nudity."

Mon? Fat heads! The Juice's head was so big he was nicknamed "Headquarters" in high school.

They had to order a special helmet so he could play football. Incredibly enough, Speaker of the House Gingrich had the same problem.

"He had a big head out of proportion for his body and we didn't have a helmet large enough," said one of Newt's high school coaches.

"We had to send him home until we could order a custom helmet."

STREET FIGHTING GAL: Kylie Minogue.

Aussie songbird Kylie Minogue got a big rush out of helping Jean-Claude Van Damme kick tush in his latest action movie Street Fighter.

"I loved being a tough babe, handling bazookas and blowing away baddies," says Minogue.

But Kylie wasn't that crazy about her costar, the Muscles from Brussels.

"I tried to be polite. Jean-Claude has this thing about being the big man on the set: 'Hey, everybody!' It was the sort of set where some animals were more equal than others."

It's hard to believe but, the blonde beauty is in between men at the moment.

"I don't have a boyfriend — write that I said that with a sigh," Kylie says wistfully. "I just haven't found my prince. In the meantime, I'm a helpless flirt. If I'm traipsing around the world, why not have dates?"

"O.J. Simpson will never be convicted," says Walker. "It has nothing to do with whether he did it or not. I mean, that's irrelevant now. The system knows that if O.J. were convicted, there would be a major riot."

"It's been said there's a good dog and a bad dog inside us, constantly fighting," says Cash.

"Everything is a struggle, even keeping faith. Everybody's got their dark side and our light is trying to shine through the darkness. Redemption is the beautiful side of it all."

AFRICAN FIRM FORCES TOP EXECS TO LIVE IN THE JUNGLE

GRIM-FACED South African business execs pictured just before changing into traditional tribal garb.

. . . to turn them into tigers in business!

By JOE BERGER / Staff writer

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — Bigshot business execs with this country's black-owned Scion Marketing Corp. spend 11 months a year packing briefcases and beepers — and one month a year deep in the sweltering jungle, toting spears and tracking wild animals!

These city slickers with their $600 suits and silk ties suddenly find themselves fending off lions, rhinos and laughing hyenas, dancing around a campfire like wild-eyed savages — and eating only what they can kill or capture.

"We send them back to their roots — whether they like it or not — so they never lose sight of the fact that they are descended from proud jungle warriors," said no-nonsense Scion president Edward Ugodo, himself the grandson of a tribal chieftain.

BEFORE TRIP: Smiling sale executive.

SAME exec after character-building trip.

"The city, with its air-conditioned offices and fast-food restaurants, makes men soft — and men who are soft are not as productive as they should be. So we send them into the jungle to toughen them up, both in mind and body."

Dozens of the king-size company's top executives are shipped off to the steaming wilds of central Africa once a year, even if their performance rating is excellent.

But those sorry souls who cross the boss can find themselves swatting tsetse flies and eating zebra meat on a moment's notice.

"In Japan, when businessmen are not performing to expectations, they are retrained in the ways of the samurai as a means of building their character," said the hard-nosed Ugodo, 46.

"When our salesmen are not selling or our other employees let us down, we return them to the world of their ancestors — not as punishment, but to build their character. And it seems to work, because when they return, they suddenly become very productive."

But former Scion accountant Francis Odonu said the forced forays into the bug- and beast-infested wilds were so terrifying that he gave up a $53,000-a-year job to work as a deliveryman for a third of that amount.

Cabbie drives 3 million miles!

HOUSTON, Texas — Cabbie Herbert "Shorty" Jones has driven enough miles on city streets here to equal 100 orbits around the Earth.

Zip through housework the quick and easy way

Professional house cleaners do a super-fast job without spending huge amounts of money on supplies or wasting energy — and you can use their methods to save time, money and elbow grease, an expert says.

"You shouldn't have to spend more than three hours a week cleaning your house — but most people spend twice that," said Don Aslett, author of five books on cleaning, including Is There Life After Housework? Aslett offered these tips:

● Buy three cleaning products found in concentrated form at janitorial supply houses — an all-purpose cleaning solution, a disinfectant cleaning solution and an alcohol-based cleaner for glass surfaces. A gallon of all-purpose cleaner that costs about $8 will replace $160 worth of cleaners at other stores.

● Also buy your cleaning equipment at a supply house, because you'll be getting professional-grade supplies. Basics include a cotton terry cleaning cloth, a muslin cloth for dusting wood, a lamb's-wool duster with a handle, cellulose sponges in various sizes, a two-layer nylon-cellulose scrubbing sponge, a window squeegee with a long handle, a dust mop, a sponge mop and a hand floor scrubber.

Follow these cleaning tips for a fast, efficient job:

● Washing Windows — Put just one drop of a dishwashing liquid (no more, or you'll streak) into a bucket of water. Wet the window lightly with a clean sponge. Now wipe the dry rubber squeegee blade with a damp cloth. Place the squeegee at the top of the window and pull it horizontally, creating a clean, dry strip.

Wipe off the blade. Now start in the dry area and stroke downward to the bottom of the window. Dry the blade after each stroke. Finish with a horizontal stroke across the bottom to remove puddled water. No rinsing needed.

● Carpet Care — Clean every spill right away. For most organic-based stains — foods, pets, blood — clean gently from the outside in with a weak solution of ammonia (or dishwashing liquid) and water. Oil-based stains like road tar can be treated by dabbing on paint thinner or gasoline. Blot with a clean, dry cloth.

● Cleaning Floors — After sweeping or vacuuming, mop with your hand floor scrubber, using an all-purpose cleaner diluted according to label instructions. Let sit for a minute, then mop with fresh water.

Egghead professor proves Ed Anger is right again

MAMAS' BOYS GROW UP TO BE GAY MEN!

I'm madder than a duck with tar in its tail feathers over a story making the rounds all over America.

Seems that some egghead psychologist at Northwestern University just completed a study showing that if little boys dress like girls, play with dolls, wear lipstick and cling to their mamas they've got a damn good chance of being gay when they grow up.

Boys who play like girls likely gay, study says

NEWSPAPERS all over the United States are finally printing the facts that Ed Anger has been saying for years!

Well, surprise, surprise, surprise, as Gomer Pyle used to say on The Andy Griffith Show.

"If you have a very feminine boy, one so feminine that he's constantly wanting to dress up as a girl and wants to be a girl, chances are he's going to be a gay man," proclaimed researcher J. Michael Bailey.

But what makes me so pigbiting mad is that I've been saying the same thing for the last 15 years and nobody would listen. Most sissy boys are just miniature drag queens waiting to grow up. And that's a fact.

Hillary HATES cats, folks!

Remember the big flap over Hillary Clinton's being quoted off the record by The New York Times?

Seems Hillary admitted to some lady reporter that she had been "naive and dumb" about her National Health Care fiasco. Then she threw a fit when her comments ended up in the newspapers.

Well, I just got a fax from my spy in the White House revealing that Miss Hillary had a few more off-the-record quotes that the American public DIDN'T hear about. Among the juicier tidbits from the First Lady:

- "If I was back in Arkansas, I'd be a home shopping addict. I must have ordered $10,000 worth of stuff from QVC last year."
- "I can't stand Barbra Streisand and I think she knows why."
- "If I ever catch Bill with another woman, nobody will remember who Lorena Bobbitt was."
- "If I had a mom like Newt Gingrich's, I'd want to bring back the orphanages, too."
- "I may have fat legs, but you try sleeping with Bill Clinton's flabby potbelly."
- "I hate cats. If it weren't for Bill and Chelsea, I'd wring Socks'..."
- "If O.J. didn't kill his ex-wife, then Bill's never slept with a bimbo."

GALS ARE DRAWN LIKE FLIES TO GUYS WHO SMELL GOOD!

Women think men who smell good are extremely attractive — but smell is rarely a factor in a man's attraction to a woman, a fascinating new study shows.

University researchers also discovered that men find women with strong sex drives to be enticing, while women don't consider that as significant a trait in their own attractiveness.

In the study, 343 college students were given 35 personal characteristics and asked to rate the importance of each for themselves and the opposite sex.

Men ranked a male's most important features as figure first, followed by face, muscle development and physical condition.

But women said a man's eyes are his most important feature, followed by his scent, figure, muscle development, physical condition and face.

Men ranked a woman's face as her most important feature, followed by her figure and buttocks. Legs and eyes tied for fourth.

Women thought a female's most important features were, in order, her face, her figure, her weight, her eyes and her legs. Other features women thought were important on a woman were hips, stomach and waist — all characteristics related to controlling their weight.

Men thought chest, biceps, waist and shoulder width — traits related to having upper body strength — were important in males.

Psychologist Dr. Stephen Frenzy said the results show "men are concerned with having V-shaped upper bodies, but women are concerned with controlling the size and shape of their entire bodies."

TEDDY BEAR KEEPS VIGIL AT 8-YEAR-OLD LEUKEMIA VICTIM'S GRAVE

By SUSAN JIMISON / Staff writer

RALEIGH, N.C. — A fuzzy brown teddy bear keeps a lonely vigil in a church cemetery here — watching over the small grave of Brandon Cressing.

'It was the one toy he wanted for Christmas,' says boy's mom

The little stuffed animal was put there by Brandon's loving family on Christmas Day. It's the teddy bear that Brandon wanted for Christmas but didn't live long enough to receive.

"He wanted that bear so badly but he died before the holidays," said the boy's mother, Betty, 39. "So we decided to give it to him anyway.

"We feel like it kind of keeps him company so he's not all alone. We know that he can feel our love in it, wherever he is."

Eight-year-old Brandon died of leukemia on December 20 after a long and courageous battle against the killer disease. The boy had been hoping to live until Christmas so he could spend a last holiday with his family. But his valiant heart stopped beating before he got to open his presents — and wrap his frail arms around the teddy bear he longed for.

Betty and her husband Fred gave their only child a touching funeral with flowers, beautiful music and a crowd of grieving friends and relatives. But when it was over and they turned their backs on little Brandon's body in the cemetery, they found it was too much to bear.

"I kept thinking of him lying in the cold ground without anyone around," says Betty. "It made me so sad. Brandon was such a sociable person and he would hate to be there without a friend.

"I talked to Fred about it and we suddenly thought of the teddy bear. We had it packed away waiting for Christmas. It was still in the back of the closet."

The grieving parents took the little toy out of its box and drove to the cemetery with it.

They took it to Brandon's grave and nestled it by the boy's white marble tombstone.

"The minute we put the bear there, we knew it was the right thing to do," recalls Betty. "It was a comfort to us, just as we felt it was a comfort to Brandon.

"Now when we visit our son's grave it's really a reassuring thing to see his little toy sitting there. Brandon wanted

BABOON BOY DAZZLES SCIENTISTS!

By KEVIN CREED / Correspondent

KAMPALA, Uganda — A boy who was raised by baboons has finally begun to adjust to human society — almost six years after being taken from the wilds and brought to civilization!

And now Bobby, the amazing "wild boy of Kampala," is equally at home in both the jungle and the city.

"We never gave up on him," said Dr. Christoph Koller, the determined psychiatrist who tried for years to rehabilitate the child.

"And at last our persistence has paid off.

"Young Bobby, whom we believe to be 13 years old, has learned to speak English and a few words of Swahili. He can dress himself, eat with a knife and fork and even plays a decent game of checkers.

"But what's really remarkable is that he's lost none of his ability to communicate with baboons or exist in the jungle.

"He sometimes goes out into the bush for days at a time to visit his old friends. But he always comes back."

YOUNG Bobby still goes into the bush to visit with his old friends.

©WORLD PICTURE PRESS

NOW 13-YEAR-OLD BOY:
- ✓ Speaks English & Swahili!
- ✓ Plays checkers!
- ✓ Holds the secrets that will crack human-animal communication!
- ✓ Still visits with his furry friends!

Bobby's case came to light back in April of 1989 when newspapers worldwide reported that a human child of about 8 or 9 had been discovered by a group of hunters in the Ugandan bush.

Weekly World News and other media recounted the countless heartbreaking attempts — all of them in vain — to teach the baboon-raised boy to speak or even behave in a civilized way.

"We tried placing him in an orphanage at first, hoping he would adjust," said Dr. Koller. "But he was just too wild. In his own mind, he was a baboon, and baboons are very violent animals.

"He kept tearing up the curtains and chewing on the rug. He even attacked some of the other children and had to be pulled off. For his own protection as well as the safety of others, he was finally placed in a zoo."

But Dr. Koller and his diehard staff continued to visit the boy daily, sometimes reading to him through the bars of his cage in hopes he would begin to grasp the concept of language.

"The breakthrough came just this January when we began reading to him from the works of Dr. Seuss, the American writer of children's books. For some reason he seemed particularly responsive to The Cat In the Hat and Green Eggs and Ham."

Dr. Koller says the boy is making incredibly fast progress.

"We have every reason to believe Bobby will soon be teaching us at least as much as we're teaching him," says Dr. Koller.

"We've been following him into the bush and videotaping his 'conversations' with baboons. We're looking forward to a day when little Bobby will show us valuable secrets that will crack the mystery of human-animal communication."

My Siamese twin won't let me marry the man I love!

Dear Dotti: My Siamese twin sister and I are joined at the chest and surgeons can't separate us without killing her. Up until now, we got along fine.

Things changed when I met a wonderful man who asked me to marry him. I would walk down the aisle with my Prince Charming in a minute but my sister is jealous and refuses to go along. What am I going to do? — Stuck in Minneapolis

Dear Stuck: First you say your sister can't live without you and then say she won't let you get married. Get with the program, kiddo. You're calling the shots in this scenario — don't you EVER forget it!

Genius son wants to be a garbageman!

Dear Dotti: My 22-year-old son will graduate from Harvard with a degree in economics this spring but he has no more ambition than the man in the moon. He's got a genius I.Q. of 148. He's set to graduate with honors. But the only thing he has on his mind is getting out of school and going to work with the local sanitation department — as a garbageman. I get sick in the stomach just thinking about it, Dotti. What am I going to do? — Frantic Mom in Dallas

Dear Frantic: Be grateful you've got a son who understands the value of honest work. Too many college graduates — especially the smart ones — think the world owes them a living. And they're the ones who wind up standing in the unemployment line at the age of 30, wondering why nobody will hire them!

Hubby won't put the toilet seat down after he's done!

Dear Dotti: My stupid husband is the world's worst when it comes to putting down the toilet seat after he uses the john. When nature called me the other night, I plopped myself down without checking the position of the seat and went straight down into the bowl. I'm furious, Dotti. How can I get back at my husband and teach him a lesson once and for all? — Furious in Kinston

Dear Furious: The next time your husband leaves the house, cover the top of the toilet bowl with clear plastic wrap. When nature calls, he'll get a splashing he'll NEVER forget — I personally guarantee it!

Should I try to have another baby at age 71, Dotti?

Dear Dotti: I'm 71 and have been married to a younger man — he's 41 — for nine years. We have two children that I gave birth to in my early 60s. Now we are thinking about having another one but because of my age, we're not sure we can. Do you think we should try to have another child or leave well enough alone? — Thinking in Boston

Dear Thinking: Don't be senile. Having a child at the age of 71 is not only dangerous, it's insane!

Not only are you smart — you're gorgeous, too!

Dear Dotti: In a recent column, you said that when the Good Lord gave out brains, he gave you a few extra helpings. Well I'd like to add to that and say that he didn't cheat you in the looks department, either! You're the greatest! — Bruce in Pasadena

Dear Bruce: You're obviously an intelligent and discriminating man. Now get out of here!

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, P.O. Box 933547, Dallas, Texas 75380.

Confidentials

Dear Fuming in Calverton: Any good deodorant soap should do.

Dear Sexy in Kings: A one-man hot tub? You're sick!

Dear Ecstatic in Selden: When you do "it" in a single-wide, the whole damn UNIVERSE ought to shake!

Dear Undecided in Brevard: Bullwhips make great conversation pieces and they're fun to master, but they're not what I'd call the ideal gift to take to a baby shower!

Dear Poor in Logan: If you're half as hungry as you say you are, get rid of the cable — and buy something to eat!

Dear Lonely in Edna: Deal with it.

Dear Ginger in Cambridge: I don't care if it was 24 years ago — you still puked in my car!

Dear Dumb Bunny in Aledo: The next time the Good Lord gives out brains, hold out your hands!

Ask Serena

Is my boyfriend involved with the Mafia?

Dear Serena: I've been dating the same guy for more than a year now and we've even talked about getting engaged. But I'm worried that he's involved in the Mafia.

I don't have any proof of it but he's very secretive about his work and usually gets very upset when I ask him about it. And all his friends that I've ever met are real shady characters and I'm pretty certain they're gangsters. Serena, I've seen all the Godfather movies and I don't want to be involved in a life like that. Please tell me — is my boyfriend involved with the Mafia? — Scared in Boston

Dear Scared: No! Your boyfriend hasn't had a steady job for nine months and he's had want to tell you this because he'll tell you about his job situ-

year-old boy and I'm tired of living so far from the beach. My family travels to South Carolina once a year for a week but that's not enough for me. When I grow up will I ever live at the beach? — Unsatisfied in Oklahoma

Dear Unsatisfied: Your attitude will change when you grow up. Someday you'll have a chance to take a job in Hawaii but you'll turn it down and live happily in Oklahoma all your life.

Dear Serena: Did my paperboy steal the welcome mat? Early one morning I stepped outside to get the paper and it was gone. If you confirm that the paperboy took it I'll call the local paper and complain. — Angry in Des Moines

Dear Angry: Your paperboy didn't do it. The mat was stolen by a man who lives three miles away and has the same last name as you do. Check the phone book and you'll quickly find the guilty party.

IN HAPPIER days: Frank and Alice Drommaneyer.

CLOSE-UP photo of bug alleged to be Frank, a 34-year-old liquor salesman.

TULSA, Okla. — Housewife Alice Drommaneyer, 33, says she and her husband Frank were attacked and mugged by space aliens — who turned her husband into a cockroach!

The distraught young wife says the extraterrestrials assaulted Frank on the street and turned him into a bug when he refused to give up his wallet.

"I tried to call in a complaint on 911 but they kept hanging up on me like I was a prankster," says Alice, who insists the roach she keeps in a mayonnaise jar is actually her husband.

"Frankly, I'm afraid to pursue it because I'm worried they're going to think I'm crazy and put me away. Then who's going to take care of Frank?" Alice says she contacted Weekly World News because she believes a story about her bizarre experience might help ease her plight.

By LISA MERAKIS

She's hoping other NEWS readers who may have been attacked by the same alien gang will be willing to contact her to share their experiences. Alice says the horrifying crime occurred around 10 p.m. on December 21 while she and Frank were shopping for Christmas presents.

The couple were on their way to a parking area where they'd left their car when they were accosted by four little green creatures.

"They just popped out of nowhere and blocked our path," Alice recalled.

"They looked so strange, with big eyes and shiny, leathery skin.

"We thought they were going to be friendly, but one of them pulled a gun and we knew we were in trouble.

Alice says the space aliens jumped Frank and beat him, then stole his wallet and forced a slimy liquid down his throat.

The E.T. attackers ran off, she says, but it was too late for her husband. He began writhing in agony and started shrinking right before her eyes.

Within minutes, the 34-year-old liquor salesman had turned into a cockroach approximately two inches long.

Alice says she captured the bug and stashed it in her purse, then put it in a mayonnaise jar when she got home. "People think I'm crazy, but I know that bug is Frank and I feel strongly that something ought to be done to help him," Alice said. "That's why it's so important to me that people who have had this happen to them get in touch with me.

"I feel like I can't do anything on my own because nobody will believe me, but that together we can make people listen. Then maybe we can find these thugs and put them in jail where they belong — and force them to tell us how to bring Frank back to normal."

"The shuttle was apparently loaded with enough supplies to last several years and from all indications, the children are still alive," said Dr. MacIntosh.

"But the situation is touch and go — and there isn't much time left. If space aliens don't rescue these children, we will have to.

"Either way, something has to be done. And I just hope that the Justice Department is able to identify

AIDS PANIC GRIPS RICH & FAMOUS

By SUSAN JIMISON / Staff writer

LONDON — Cross-dressing docs Keith Watts and Vikram Advani pranced off to sex orgies when they weren't operating on their high-society patients — and caught AIDS!

Now thousands of former patients are terrified they may have gotten the deadly virus while they were under the perverted practitioners' care. And people all over England are worried they may be endangered by other homosexual health-care workers.

"There are lots more doctors and dentists like us out there," said Dr. Watts, a gay surgeon who admitted his weirdo behavior and urged all doctors with AIDS to voluntarily stop practicing. "They may know or suspect they have AIDS, but they won't take tests and they continue to practice.

"There must be regular screening because even if HIV-positive medics stop working they still could have infected someone unwittingly."

Dr. Watts, who is near death, has outlived Dr. Advani — his former sweetheart — by more than a year. He admits that he and his love used to delight in dressing up in frilly frocks.

In their sexy outfits, they'd go to steamy sex orgies and cross-dressing bars and even aashay into the elite social world of their wealthy London patients. Both men slept with scores of male lovers. Their kinky extracurricular activities eventually gave them AIDS, but tragically, the mincing medics continued to practice on patients, performing procedures that could well have spread their disease.

Dr. Watts eventually admitted to authorities that he had AIDS and was assigned to treat AIDS patients exclusively. But Dr. Advani practiced on patients until his death last year.

"I tried to get him to stop but he wouldn't listen — he didn't want to know," Dr. Watts said. "I suppose I should have told the authorities. But we were best friends and it would have been a real betrayal. I don't think Vik was continuing his work for the money because he was loaded. When you have AIDS you become selfish — you don't think of anyone else. But he was going out of his mind with worry that he would be caught."

Dr. Watts, who has a new lover to keep him company as he dies, is tortured by the knowledge that he may have helped kill people he was supposed to be curing.

He's courageously trying to

Gals eat like birds when they're with a handsome guy!

By JEAN RYAN
Correspondent

When women are with men they find attractive, they eat much less than they do when they're with unattractive men or with other women, university researchers have just discovered.

"Even though women today have made tremendous advances in the world, they still want to retain their sense of femininity, especially when they're with men they find attractive," explained top psychologist Dr. Shelly Chaiken.

"Traditionally, women who eat small 'birdlike' portions of food are considered more attractive. So many women pick at their food in public, even when they actually could be very hungry."

Dr. Chaiken based her conclusions on a study she conducted while she was teaching at a major university.

She paired college students with either an attractive or unattractive partner. In each room where the students were meeting for the first time were two bowls containing a premeasured mixture of snack food.

Students were told to help themselves to the snack. After they left, the amount remaining in the bowls was measured to determine how much was eaten.

"Women ate about four times as much food when they were with an unattractive male as they did when they were with an attractive male," Dr. Chaiken said.

When women were paired with women, they also ate more.

Men ate less when they were with women than they did when they were with other men. But the difference in their consumption when they were with attractive women or unattractive women was "insignificant," Dr. Chaiken said. She concluded men eat less when they're with women "out of simple social politeness."

SEEING-EYE DOG FLAGS DOWN CAR — TO SAVE STRICKEN OWNER'S LIFE!

By R. NEALE LIND / Staff writer

WESTMINSTER, Colo. — A heroic seeing-eye dog went completely against his training, rushed out into traffic and flagged down a passing motorist to get help for his stricken owner!

Patch, a 5-year-old black Labrador retriever, was trained not to bark and never to leave his owner's side.

But when his beloved friend and owner, Mrs. Heather Seaver, suffered an epileptic seizure while waiting for a bus, the faithful dog threw all that training to the wind and acted on his instincts.

When Mrs. Seaver fell to the sidewalk, Patch jumped back and forth between the curb and gutter until he attracted the attention of passing motorist Yvonne Sutton.

"He was barking at the cars," says Mrs. Sutton. "He was frantic. There was definitely something wrong."

When Mrs. Sutton pulled over and got out, Patch gently grabbed her sleeve in his teeth and led her over to Mrs. Seaver. Mrs. Sutton summoned a third driver who called paramedics.

"The amazing thing about all this is that Patch has never gone against his training before," said Mrs. Seaver, who has owned Patch since 1992.

"The fact that he went into traffic shocks me. I know he understood there was something wrong with me that had nothing to do with my blindness.

"I think God gave him the insight to realize I needed help and he ran to get it for me.

"I could have fallen into the street, hit my head and been seriously injured or killed. It's very touching to me. I know God was working through Patch.

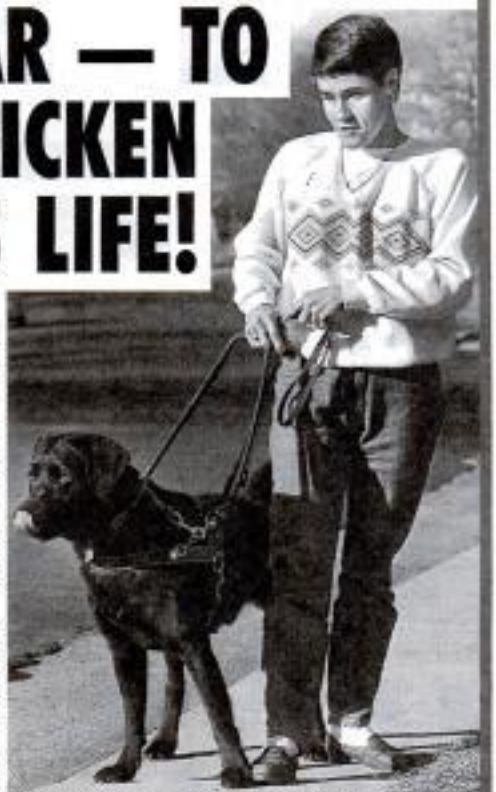
"As soon as the ordeal was over and the ambulance was about to leave, Patch's training came back to him.

"He seemed to suddenly realize we were in traffic and tried to lead me out of it."

The city of Westminster gave Patch a medal for his bravery.

"I'm really proud of his courage," says Mrs. Seaver.

"And the paramedics deserve a lot of credit, too. They were great."



VALIANT dog Patch stops at a curb to check for cars before helping his master, Heather Seaver, cross the street.

Epileptic woman: If it wasn't for Patch's courage — I would have died!

GRATEFUL Heather Seaver and Patch share a loving moment.

ARIES
Mar. 21 – Apr. 19

Prevent a disagreement with a friend or loved one from turning into a feud this week by not being stubborn. Force yourself to compromise.

Avoid travel problems by getting your car checked. Make sure tires are okay and keep your tank filled.

Bosses pat you on the back for solving a baffling problem. Don't let your cleverness go to your head. Stay humble and you'll stay popular.

TAURUS
Apr. 20 – May 20

Think positive about appointments and meetings. Walking in with the right attitude can win the day.

The family budget threatens to get out of hand. Curb spending on luxury items this week. You can easily stay within your means if you stick with necessities.

This could be the week for an outstanding performance at work. You'll save the day with your talent.

GEMINI
May 21 – June 20

Be objective this week. Financial gains may be possible if you concentrate on matters and think clearly.

A friend or relative may ask for a favor that could cause you anguish. It may be in the best interests of both of you to say "no."

Assess your life to see if it's too predictable. If the answer is "yes," change it. If not, keep on plugging.

Get plenty of rest.

CANCER
June 21 – July 22

A tendency to be oversensitive may put a roadblock in your life this week if you're not careful.

Give yourself a break this week and do something different. Spur of the moment decisions may be more rewarding than long-range planning.

Be aware of your psychic qualities — they may help enrich your life.

Real happiness is closer than you realize.

LEO
July 23 – Aug. 22

You have a tendency to mouth off — and your loose tongue could cause real problems with loved ones this week. Think before you sound off and be quick to apologize if you've caused hurt feelings.

Something that happens at sea will have a profound effect on your life, but you may not realize it for weeks to come. Watch for clues.

A small gamble could pay off big.

VIRGO
Aug. 23 – Sept. 22

Has the humdrum of daily life got you down? Not for long. Events begin unfolding this week that could turn your life into the kind of stuff movies are made of, but before it's over, you may be ready to return to business as usual.

Someone special loves you. Don't let insensitivity ruin a good thing.

Pay close attention to dreams about rain and snow.

LIBRA
Sept. 23 – Oct. 22

Your luck will improve dramatically this week, so get ready to take advantage of your coming good fortune.

Rely on your sense of fair play to settle a dispute that could disturb your home life. Don't be afraid to step in and take charge of the situation. Others will respect you for it.

Confusion over your future may not be resolved by taking time out to make plans.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23 – Nov. 21

Look for something positive this week and you'll come out a winner. Don't lose sight of your goals as you overcome the obstacles to success.

You may need to resist your sense of loyalty when someone you trust tries to take advantage of your giving nature. Be a friend, not a doormat.

An unusual opportunity may come your way in the week ahead. Look carefully before you leap.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22 – Dec. 21

Tensions should ease this week and it would be wise to keep an open mind to offers that could upgrade your lifestyle. Be flexible.

You'll be pushed to the limit by those who know your capacity for hard work. Be careful not to spread yourself too thin — you're only human.

Reserve the weekend for family or close friends. Share with them your hopes for the future.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 – Jan. 19

You'll do very well this week if you use your intuition in family matters. Curb any urge to gamble.

Colder weather will warm your heart and you'll find the next few months ideal for a renewed interest in romance. Singles should be on the lookout for someone truly special.

Rev up your social life. This is an excellent week to talk with people you may have recently ignored.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 – Feb. 18

The week ahead will be most fulfilling and packed with new opportunities for personal achievement. Be decisive! This is no time to be timid!

Complete projects you've started but put aside. Too many loose ends complicate what would otherwise be an enjoyable, easygoing life.

Don't push yourself to the limit this weekend. More than anything else, you need restful time alone.

PISCES
Feb. 19 – Mar. 20

Travel plans may be delayed. Use the free time this week to make necessary repairs around the home.

Friends and family may be very demanding. The pressure may tempt you to fly off the handle, but try to let off steam in chores and recreation.

Avoid moving vehicles this weekend. Instead, enjoy nature and take some time to smell the roses.

Your luck is good this week.

If your birthday is this week...

Mon., Feb. 20 – Sun., Feb. 26

Follow your instincts this year and you'll be on the road to success in your relations with others. You have the good sense to know who your friends and enemies are. Take advantage of it.

long term. Don't lose faith — your hard work and careful planning will benefit you.

This should be a delicious year for love, provided you are open to it.

GAY PETS STAR ON WACKY NEW TV SHOW

FAIRY TAILS are wagging over a crazy new Australian television show that features goofy pets such as this sissy parrot that often wears an ascot and speaks with a lisp.

By SHAWN HARRIS / Correspondent

. . . but U.S. networks are afraid to put it on the air!

A new show that features the swishy lifestyles of sissy pets acting just like their gay owners is the hottest thing on Australian TV — but U.S. networks are afraid to put it on the air here!

The show, called Animal Sweets, has been racking up high ratings ever since its debut 12 weeks ago. But its producers have been frustrated in their attempts to sell it in America.

"They've told us our show is too controversial for U.S. audiences," said producer Allen Langston of Melbourne, Australia. "They say they'd be put out of business if they aired even one episode."

But Australian audiences are tuning in by the millions to the show that features:

● A parrot that speaks with a lisp and likes to wear a red ascot.

● A gerbil that refuses to eat unless it has a miniature candelabra beside its food dish and soft music playing in the background.

● A monkey that wears a paisley dinner jacket, several heavy gold chains around its neck and a tiny gold ring on each finger.

● A Siamese cat that grooms itself in front of a mirror and refuses to leave the house unless it's attired in a purple sequined sweater.

● Two chimps that clutch flower bouquets and constantly sniff them.

● A male basset hound that wears flowery women's hats and sways his behind from side to side when he walks.

"It's a well-known fact that homosexuality naturally occurs in the animal kingdom but these pets picked up their kinky behavior from their gay owners," Langston said.

"We originally created Animal Sweets to appeal to homosexuals but the show is very popular with heterosexuals. They think it's hilarious."

Langston said he couldn't understand why U.S. networks were so afraid of the show.

"It's all good fun," he said. "I guess Americans just don't

Maryland woman's shocking story!

I'VE BEEN HAUNTED BY A GHOST SINCE 1922!

By SUSAN JIMISON / Staff writer

In one of the eeriest ghost encounters of all time, trembling Ellen Myers spoke with the spirit of her husband's dead friend — and even tenderly held his hand for a heart-stopping moment.

Then, when Ellen closed her eyes for a second, the man disappeared. And, incredibly, Ellen found out hours later he had died in a tragic accident at the time she spoke with his ghost.

The chilling real-life story was revealed when Ellen Myers described her experience many years later to a woman's magazine. Experts say that the Clinton, Md., woman's meeting with the ghost is called a crisis apparition — something that happens when a loved one dies traumatically.

"This frightening visit from a ghost really did happen," Ellen said. "It was so scary.

"Everybody is afraid of seeing a ghost and with good reason — it is terrifying."

The ghostly visit took place in April 1922, when newly married Ellen was just 18 years old and living in New York City with her husband Bill. She was pregnant with their first child and had decided to spend the morning in bed. After resting up for a few hours, Ellen decided she felt well enough to go visit her mother in New Jersey. She saw the time was just 10 a.m. as she turned to go to the door. Suddenly, she realized that her husband's best buddy Mike Moran was sitting on the edge of her bed. "Here he was, uninvited, and in our bedroom, no less," Ellen recalled. "What nerve! I was shocked that Mike would do something so rude and offensive — he was normally a very quiet young man. Then I became livid when I saw the mess he was making. He was dripping wet from head to toe. Water was just pouring off him — the covers were soaked." Ellen was about to scold Mike for his behavior when she saw that he looked tremendously sad. "I came to say goodbye," he said to her.

Drowning pal appears in her bedroom — dripping wet to bid farewell!

SHAKEN Ellen Myers has been terrified by the spirit for the past seven decades.

He looked so unhappy that Ellen went to him and grabbed his hand.

But suddenly, she was overcome by a wave of panic and closed her eyes. When she opened them, Mike was gone. Hours later, Ellen's husband returned home and told her Mike was dead.

"Mike Moran was in a boating accident today," Bill told her. "He drowned at 10 this morning."

Mike's ghost that she nearly lost her baby. And for the rest of her life, she has been haunted by the experience.

"I had nightmares almost every night for over a year after that," she recalled. "In fact, I still have bad dreams. In my dreams, Mike is sitting there dripping water everywhere, only this time I know he's a ghost and the fear is overwhelming."

REAL-LIFE MAYBERRY

Australian town has...

- No crime
- No AIDS
- No drugs
- No divorce

By RICK TRACY / Correspondent

MILES, Australia — Folks who live in this quaint little town call it heaven on earth because there is no crime, no AIDS, no drug problem and no unemployment. There are no school dropouts and no babies born out of wedlock.

There is no jail, no police department and no court system — because no one ever gets into trouble, divorces his mate or sues anyone for damages.

And the reason this town of 12,310 residents is so trouble-free will surprise you.

"We decided to do away with laws and put everyone on the honor system about 10 years ago," said Mayor Ellery Hicks.

"And it has worked like a charm. People here care about themselves and each other and they look out for one another. We're so remote out here that we can make our own rules and we never have problems with outsiders.

"Nobody would bother coming all the way to Miles to make trouble."

Town officials decided to experiment with the honor system during a budget crisis in late 1984.

"We couldn't afford a police department, a court system or a jail," Mayor Hicks explained.

"So we just simply did away with them and told everyone to be on their best behavior. As a result, we've become a real-life Mayberry," Mayor Hicks added, referring to the legendary small town on TV's The Andy Griffith Show.

"We have found that people have more pride and more self-esteem when they assume responsibility for their actions and more or less police themselves.

"Some people take longer to come to that realization than others, but when they do, it makes for a trouble-free society."

No one has been caught violating the honor system here since a teenage girl was spotted stealing two apples from a grocery store six years ago.

"That young lady was so embarrassed that she agreed to work at the store every night for three months for nothing to make up for what she'd done," Mayor Hicks said proudly. "And since then, she's gone on to finish high school and will graduate from college in the spring.

"Our children also learn the value of not having kids out of wedlock or destroying their bodies with alcohol or drugs. But they're not too goody-goody to know how to have fun."

Divorce is unheard of in this astonishing town, as is unemployment.

Everyone here works for a living — and therefore, there's no such thing as welfare in Miles.

"When someone gets sick or is admitted to a hospital here, it doesn't cost them an arm and a leg to pay the bill," Mayor Hicks said.

"People are given an opportunity to work out their bill if they can't pay it."

No student has dropped out of high school since 1988 because Miles has dozens of volunteer tutors who help slow learners cope.

"Most of our residents think they have died and gone to heaven," the mayor said proudly.

"We have truly found a small piece of paradise."

NURSE HIDES HUMAN LIVER IN HOSPITAL CAFETERIA

HUNDREDS of liver transplant operations are performed every day without incident in American hospitals — and very few organs are dropped on the floor.

...where it was served for lunch!

A fumble-fingered nurse dropped a donated liver on the floor — then tried to cover up her mistake by putting the dirty organ in a freezer in the hospital cafeteria.

But here's the worst part: By the time anyone had found out what she'd done, the liver had been cooked up and served to patients and hospital visitors!

That's the shocking conclusion of an investigation into the disappearance of a human liver at a California hospital late last month. Hospital administrators persuaded investigators not to reveal where the accident occurred.

By MATTHEW ROBECK
Correspondent

"There's no sense in panicking the hundreds of people who have eaten at the cafeteria in the past few weeks," said a hospital spokesman. "And it would be unfair to let one person's actions reflect badly on our entire hospital.

"The nurse in question has been suspended without pay, pending further review," said the spokesman.

"She was carrying the liver when she apparently lost her grip and dropped it on the floor.

"She realized immediately the contaminated liver could never be used and she was afraid she would get in serious trouble for dropping it.

"In an attempt to cover up her mistake she just made a very bad decision."

The shocking incident is the latest in a bizarre series of accidents with transplant organs.

In another recent, highly publicized story, a nurse in Spokane, Wash., accidentally dropped a human heart and then threw it in the trash can without telling anyone.

That nurse was reprimanded and fined $250.

Virgin Island golf course killer headed for college!

ST. CROIX, U.S. Virgin Islands — A cold-blooded killer, who helped gun down eight people, has been pardoned from prison by a bleeding-heart big shot — and is entering the University of California!

Former Virgin Islands governor Alexander Farrelly commuted the eight life sentences of Raphael Joseph, 43, and four killers convicted in unrelated cases — "to give some of our brothers who have strayed a second opportunity."

On Sept. 6, 1972, Joseph and four other machine gun-toting thugs robbed golfers and opened fire when two married couples from Miami — were lined up and gunned down execution-style. "It was a slaughter. The killers showed absolutely no mercy," said a detective who worked on the case.

"I consider anybody who could slaughter eight people and walk away extremely dangerous," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Susan Via.

HEARTBROKEN HOUND Penny guards the body of her dead pal, Timmy the chimp.

Dog keeps sad vigil at dead chimp's side!

By DEXTER BONNER / Correspondent

This looks like any other "cute animal" picture but nothing could be further from the truth.

In fact, the chimp is dead — and the dog that raised him from infancy is mourning the loss of the best little friend she ever had.

The tragedy unfolded when owner Margaret Roland left her pets, Penny the dog and Timmy the chimp, at home while she dashed to the supermarket.

Returning a half hour later, she found 2-year-old Timmy dead on her front lawn — with Penny keeping a silent but anguished vigil by his side.

An empty bottle of chlorine bleach lay a few feet away. A veterinarian later confirmed that the mischievous chimp had accidentally poisoned himself by chugging a full quart of the stuff, the heartbroken woman said.

"Timmy's mother died while giving birth and Penny took him under her wing," said Mrs. Roland, a former carnival worker and chimp trainer from Sydney, Australia.

"It was a true animal love story from the very beginning. Penny and Timmy were inseparable from the day they met.

"When Timmy was younger, she seemed to realize that it was time for him to venture out on his own a little and find out what the world was all about.

"I guess she let him wander away when I went to the store. When I got back home and saw them out on the lawn, I thought Timmy was sleeping and actually took a picture.

"About an hour or so later, I tried to wake him up. That's when I realized the awful truth. Timmy wasn't sleeping. Timmy was dead. And Penny was grieving her heart out."

Mrs. Roland buried the chimp in a tiny plot near her home as Penny watched.

"Penny trots down there first thing in the morning and the last thing at night," said the woman. "She knows he's gone forever. But she wants to make sure he's all right."

WHAT YOUR FAVORITE TV SHOW REVEALS ABOUT YOU!

By SUSAN JIMISON / Staff writer

NEW YORK CITY — Your favorite TV show tells a lot about your personality, a top author and psychologist says.

That's because programs people like feature characters they can identify with and issues they consider important, according to Elayne Kahn, author of 1001 Ways You Reveal Your Personality.

In a recent interview with the New York Daily News, the noted psychologist reviewed today's top shows — and described what they reveal about you.

● ER: You respond well to stress and you know how to set goals and reach them. You're the kind of person who accepts responsibility and others depend on you.

● Seinfeld: You are sensitive to others, honest and warm. You hate to hurt others and are at your best when surrounded by loved ones and close friends. You have a laid-back temperament and a great imagination.

● Home Improvement: You're an old-fashioned type who values family life, your job and your country. You know how to enjoy life. You aren't afraid of hard work.

● Grace Under Fire: You tell it like it is. You have a kindly manner with your unassuming ways. Optimism and enthusiasm about life make you a popular person with others.

● NYPD Blue: You are romantic and enjoy taking risks. With others you're a real team player. People like your company because you are down to earth and able to see the bright side.

● Roseanne: Your zany sense of humor wins you friends and helps you get through life. A fresh approach to problems makes you a leader. You're a sensualist.

● Murphy Brown: You're an independent person who charts his own course in life. You enjoy your popularity with others — especially members of the opposite sex. Known for your wit, curiosity and ambition, you tend to be a leader. When others need a helping hand, they count on you.

● Frasier: For you, family and close friends are everything. You're still very connected to your family and interested in working out your relationships. For you, the world of emotions outweighs the world of career, money and appearances.

● Mad About You: You are a real people-lover who enjoys life to the hilt. Other cultures fascinate you, and you have friends from many different backgrounds. You don't care much about material wealth, but you cherish the simple joys of living.

● 20/20: As a dependable, organized person you like to stay informed about the world around you. You are a person who prizes rational thought and good decision-making.

Friends depend on you for thoughtful advice and important insights.

Virgin Mary appears for the last time!

A man who attracted thousands of folks to his rural home to see visions of the Virgin Mary now says she told him she won't be coming back anymore!

Retired draftsman Joseph Januszkiewicz of Marlboro, N.J., says Mary appeared with Jesus and told him it was her final visit. She didn't say why she was going to stop the monthly visits.

Januszkiewicz claims Virgin Mary has been appearing in his backyard on the first Sunday of every month since early 1989.

BETRAYED: Dirk Delahune had no idea that Marla, the woman he married, would turn out to be a Jezebel.

Chicago couple on their wedding day!

By RANDY JEFFRIES / Correspondent

CHICAGO — When adulteress Marla Delahune had a hot extramarital affair she hoped it would remain a secret. But her furious husband caught her in the act — and now he's telling the world about it!

"I'm doing all I can to make sure everyone knows just what a low-down lying snake my so-called wife is," says shoe salesman Dirk Delahune.

"Before I'm through, when people hear the word 'adultery,' the name 'Marla' will jump into their minds."

Dirk has hired skywriters, scrawled graffiti on rest room walls and fences, and even posted a sign saying "Adulterous Wife" above the "For Sale" sign in front of his house.

"She moved into her own place right after I caught her, but I can't stay in that house after what happened," said Dirk, who made his shocking discovery when he came home early from work one day and found his wife of three years in bed with her tennis instructor.

Dirk tearfully asked her how she could do such a thing. "Instead of explaining, all she could do was beg me not to let any of our friends or family know she'd been unfaithful," says Dirk. "She was more concerned about her damn image than she was about my feelings."

Then and there, Dirk made it his life's mission to expose her as a conniving Jezebel.

"I hired a skywriter to write, 'Marla Delahune's a tramp.' I handed out cards asking people to dial my number, and when they called they heard a message on my answering machine that said, 'This is Dirk Delahune. My wife Marla is an adulterous cheat.

"'Trusting her is as risky as trying to pet a cobra.'"

Sunglasses should be worn in winter, too!

It's just as important for you to wear sunglasses in the winter as it is in the summer, experts say.

"The total amount of sunlight your eyes are exposed to over the course of your lifetime is a major factor in the two most significant causes of blindness in the U.S. cataract of the lens and degeneration of part of the retina," said Dr. Richard Young.

"I would recommend that whenever anyone goes out into bright sunlight, they should wear appropriate protective sunglasses."

Sunglasses are especially important in snowy regions because "snow in sunlight is about the most reflective surface you are likely to encounter," he added.

The most dangerous rays are invisible ultraviolet rays — and cheap sunglasses won't protect you from them, said Dr. Young, a respected eye expert.

Look for sunglasses that block 100 percent of the sun's ultraviolet rays, he said. The labels on the more expensive brands of glasses usually indicate what portion of ultraviolet radiation they absorb.

If you want to be sure your sunglasses are absorbing all of the ultraviolet radiation, ask your optician or pharmacist.

And wear your sunglasses in winter as well as summer, Dr. Young stressed, because "for those out in the snow on a sunny day, there is a very high risk of damage.

"I'd say there's almost as much risk on snow on a sunny day in winter as there would be on a white sandy beach in the middle of sum-

Rescue 911!

Boy, 4, calls cops — because his mom spanked him

SMART KID Mike Delnorant reached for the phone when his fanny was whacked.

By DAVID BARTON
Correspondent

CHICAGO — Little Mike Delnorant knew enough to dial 911 when he was in trouble.

The problem is, he was in trouble with his mom — and when cops rushed to his home, he was in even more trouble than before!

"I gave him a spank on the bottom for telling a fib and he called the cops," said housewife Annie Delnorant. "He told them someone was hitting him and he wanted them taken away. They were really concerned.

"The first I knew about it, the police showed up at my door. They asked to see Mike to make sure he was all right. I was so embarrassed I nearly sank through the floor."

Mischievous Mike, 4, learned to use the telephone earlier this year after his diabetic grandmom moved into the family home. Annie thought the little boy should know how to dial for help if his grandmother got ill while he was alone with her. Clever Mike also memorized his address and telephone number so he could tell folks where he lived.

So when his mom punished him two weeks ago, little Mike knew just how to get back at her.

The tyke got caught stealing Popsicles from the freezer — and then lied and told his mom he didn't do it. Angry Annie dusted his bottom and Mike decided to tell on her.

"He dialed 911 and told the operator someone had hit him and he needed protection," Annie said. "I didn't know he'd done anything until the police came. When I found out what had happened I had to do some fast talking to convince the officers that I hadn't abused my little boy.

"When the policemen left I was really mad at Mike and I sent him to bed early without any TV. But after a day or two, I actually felt kind of proud of him. He was really listening when his dad Clarence and I explained how to call 911.

"In a real emergency, he could be a little hero."

PROUD PARENTS Annie and Clarence Delnorant with their son Mike.

MEXICO CITY — Thieves made off with $1 million in cash when two bumbling armored car guards lay down under a tree for their afternoon siesta — leaving the car's keys in the ignition.

The unidentified guards had pulled off the road for a nap while on a run between here and Guadalajara. They awoke 90 minutes later to find that someone had driven off with the car — leaving only two small bags of cash behind.

"The suspects left two bags of money near the snoozing guards, just to taunt them," said Police Inspector Hector Amanda. "They wanted to let them know it was pretty stupid

Dad's ghost brought me a copy of 'Weekly World News'

. . . from Heaven!

CHRISTIE Alcorn displays the Weekly World News edition featuring photo of a human soul, sent to her by her dad's spirit.

By TANYA BRODER / Correspondent

Devoted daughter Christie Alcorn says she's stopped grieving for her dear departed dad — ever since his ghost brought her a copy of the September 15 Weekly World News with a photo of a human soul on the cover!

The Los Angeles college student says her father's spirit appeared at her bedside one night, following his death from cancer, holding a copy of the paper.

He smiled and handed the shocked 18-year-old the newspaper, then disappeared. "I saw the picture of that human soul soaring up to Heaven and I knew just what he was trying to tell me," says Christie.

"He wanted me to know that he was gone from his earthly body and living in been at peace."

Christie's father — 56-year-old Milton — died of cancer last July, just before Christie went away for her first year at college.

The young woman, an only child whose mom had died when she was born, was devastated by his death and unable to sleep or eat for weeks.

The suffering student was falling behind in her studies and thinking of giving up on school when she received the fateful visit from her dad.

"It was on October 11 — eight

"All of a sudden I felt this presence by my bed and the air in my room grew cold. In the dark corner by my bed I saw this shadowy shape and I realized it was my father standing there.

"The figure of my father was holding a copy of the Weekly World News and smiling. He laid the paper on my bed and gestured toward it. Then he smiled again and disappeared."

Christie was so shaken by what she had seen that she immediately leaped out of bed and turned on the lights.

Then she saw the front cover of the newspaper her father had brought her — and she realized the ghost had brought her a gift of love.

"He must have known how much I'd suffered since he died and wanted to help me conquer my grief," Christie says.

"And what he did for me was perfect. The moment I laid eyes on that photo of the human soul, my mourning stopped. I knew then my dad was happy in Heaven and that one day when I die my soul will join his there for all eternity."

Daredevil squirrel sucked down drainpipe!

STUNT SQUIRREL Gerard Heroique was a world-class water-skier.

By LILA SCHVANDT / Correspondent

PARIS — Stunt squirrel Gerard Heroique is missing and presumed dead after a water-skiing tragedy in which he was crossing a lake during a performance — and was sucked down a drainpipe!

Officials here say thousands of shocked witnesses saw the fatal accident, in which the gray squirrel suddenly disappeared under the chilly waters of Lake Breneaux in the middle of his act on February 8.

"The lake is a small man-made reservoir used to supplement the city water supply and there are a number of large intake pipes situated throughout it," explained Justin Prenot, head of the emergency rescue crew which spent three days searching without success for the daredevil rodent's corpse. "The missing performer apparently passed by an area where there was sufficient suction to drag him under.

"We have not yet found his body but we will continue our search. Gerard Heroique is one of the world's most famous performers and we do not intend to leave him in the city water system."

Heroique was acclaimed as the greatest stunt squirrel of all time and had entertained millions of people throughout Europe.

He began his career only three years ago, following in the steps of his father Hercule, who was also killed in a water-skiing accident.

Witnesses to the squirrel's tragic last moments say Heroique was speeding across Lake Breneaux when he disappeared from view. Bertrand de Rotande, the squirrel's manager, said special memorial services would be held for Heroique, who was also a daredevil diver, snow skier, parachutist and hang glide enthusiast. The seven-inch-tall nut-nibbler had also set a 37.2 mile-per-hour world water-ski speed record for small animals.

"He had guts," de Rotande said. "He was the greatest stunt squirrel the world has ever seen and he will be sorely missed."

Evil mom plays loud music while son is beaten with wire brush, say cops

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A teenage boy was stripped naked and beaten with a baseball bat, a wire brush and a shovel by three family friends, cops say — while his mom played music to cover up his screams!

"They suspected the boy had stolen $6,400 from his mother's boyfriend. They tried to make him tell them where the money was by beating him," said a police detective.

The cash apparently was taken from the pants pocket of Hugh Taylor, boyfriend of the teen's mother, Marie Szadorski, 39. Taylor had draped the pants over a chair while he slept. Police said 14-year-old Riey and was dragged to the basement of his home. He was stripped naked, hanged by his hands from a pipe and beaten for an hour.

"The boy told us the three adults took turns beating him with a bat, a shovel and a heavy wire brush," the detective

COW MANURE SNIFFING ACROSS U.S.!

By ROBERT TYSON / Correspondent

Cow manure sniffing has reached epidemic proportions among teens in the United States — and thousands of addicted youngsters are showing symptoms of serious brain damage because of it!

The dangerous pastime originated in Malaysia in 1992 among drug addicts who couldn't afford cocaine or heroin.

They discovered they could get high by plopping a bowl over a fresh, steaming pile of cow manure, sticking straws through holes in the bottom of the bowl — and sucking the methane gas through the straws.

The bizarre craze quickly spread to Europe and the United States — and is now so common in this country that experts fear it could undermine the health of an entire generation.

"This manure-sniffing business is already out of control," said Atlanta physician Dr. John Talberson. "Young men and women are suffering extended periods of dizziness and blurred vision and some are even showing signs of permanent brain damage.

'Thousand of American teens facing permanent brain damage,' says doctor!

YOUNG PEOPLE are going blind and even risking permanent brain damage, says Dr. John Talberson.

"But even when these young people are made to understand what they're doing to themselves, they still head back to the pastures time and time again. It's obviously very addictive stuff."

Dr. Talberson said his research reveals that in some Southern communities, nearly 70 percent of high school students have experimented with manure-sniffing.

"The students I have spoken to say the high they get off manure-sniffing is better than anything they've ever experienced before," Dr. Talberson said. "And of course, it's a lot less expensive — and in some places, a lot more accessible — than alcohol and other drugs."

Dr. Talberson said he has developed a new blood test to determine whether a patient has been sniffing manure.

"Since the activity is so addicting, the only way to beat it is to catch it early," he said.

"I'd advise all schools in this country to institute student methane-testing programs — so we can stop this latest madness now."

How to tell if your child is snorting bull crap!

In order to determine whether your child has been engaged in manure sniffing, Dr. Jim Talberson said parents should look for these telltale signs:

● Dazed, faraway looks on children's faces. "The high that children get from the methane gas generally lasts for quite a while," Dr. Talberson said. "And even when the high is wearing off the sniffer generally will show the effects for several hours."

● The child keeps several straws and bowls in his room or car. "This is the equipment every sniffer needs," he said. "If the bowls have holes in the bottom of them, it's a sure bet the child is a sniffer."

● Unusual amounts of mud and "This would indicate he has been spending a lot of time in fields and cow pastures."

● Forgetfulness and unusually short attention spans. "This would tell you the child has been engaging in the sniffing for a long period of time," Dr. Talberson said. "He may already have a serious problem."

Dr. Talberson also said parents should trust their instincts. "If your child smells like manure, be aware that he is probably spending time sniffing it. And don't be afraid to Buddhist monk beheaded for sleeping with a nun!

BANGKOK, Thailand — An outraged Buddhist monk chopped an abbot's head off after catching the monk in bed with a nun — then told cops he was imitating an execution he'd heard about on TV!

Phra Sayan Duriyalak said he committed the grisly murder after watching a judge order that criminals have their heads chopped off on a popular TV series. He also told cops he wanted to display the abbot's head at a public park as a warning to monks who considered breaking their vows of chastity.

He is awaiting trial.

OFFICE WORKERS REALLY DO spend half their time shuffling papers!

"Paperwork disease" is spreading through American business and government. An incredible 50 to 70 percent of all work hours put in by white-collar employees are wasted on paper shuffling, says expert Dianna Booher.

Here are some more mind-boggling facts about paperwork and how it's strangling us:

- Clerks spend 60 percent of their time checking, filing and retrieving information.
- For each dollar spent printing forms, it costs up to $80 to distribute, copy, process and destroy them.
- Largely because white-collar workers push more and more paper — while taking less and less action — white-collar productivity has increased just 4 percent over the past 20 years. That compares to a whopping 90 percent productivity increase among blue-collar workers during the same period.
- Americans create a mind-boggling 30 billion original documents annually — and all that paperwork costs more than $100 billion a year.
- Of the documents we keep, an amazing 75 to 85 percent are never referred to again.
- We maintain 18,000 pages of documents for each white-collar employee. And this file increases 4,000 pages per year for each employee.
- Even salespeople get buried in paperwork. One study found that salespeople spend only 36 percent of their time prospecting and selling — and the rest of it shuffling papers.
